

Ninth Circuit Overturns Negative Credibility Determination of Chinese Christian & Finds Past Persecution and Well-Founded Fear

The Court found that minor discrepancies were insufficient to support an adverse credibility finding. In addition, the Court found that the record compelled a finding of past persecution and a well-founded fear of future persecution on account of Petitioner's Christian religion. (Quan, 11/7/05)