

Is the Adjustment of Status the same as the change of Status

Adjustment of status is the process a person uses to become a lawful permanent resident while in the United States. That individual's immigration status is adjusted to lawful permanent residence. In contrast, change of status usually refers to the process by which one changes from one non-immigrant status to another such as from a visitor status to an investor status.